Two years ago when Delph decided to work the mare he had a wooden leg constructed for her, and after a few months she was able to use it to a great advantage. The animal now has a fine blooded colt by her side and has been worked with the other horses on the farm during the season, planting and harvesting the crops.

LAPORTE, Sept. 13.—That William Kramer, the former Laportean and resident of South Bend, who killed his father-in-law, Squire Collier, near Cassopolis, Mich., Wednesday night, may deny his guilt and put up a fight to clear himself was the opinion of a Cass county deputy sheriff who was in Laporte today. Deputy Arthur K. Nixon stated that Kramer would not say a word about the killing now. His wife was the only witness of the crime and under the law a wife cannot testify against her husband. This leaves the state with no witnesses against Kramer though there is a large mass of circumstantial evidence that will be collected.
